Ginger Nut Training – Learner of the Year 2023
Beth Bretherton

I am writing to nominate Beth for the prestigious "Best Learner of the Year" award. Beth has consistently displayed exceptional dedication, leadership, and a genuine passion for learning throughout the year.

One remarkable aspect of Beth contribution is her initiative to create a chat group following our workshops. Recognizing the importance of continuous learning and support, Beth took it upon herself to establish a space where all learners could connect and engage with one another. This chat group has become a vibrant community where learners can share insights, ask questions, and offer support to her peers.

Not only does Beth foster an environment of camaraderie, but she also goes above and beyond by occasionally taking detailed notes during group learning sessions and sharing them with the chat group. This act of generosity has greatly benefited everyone involved, as it ensures that key concepts, discussions, and resources are accessible to all learners, even if they were unable to attend a particular session. Beth willingness to go the extra mile showcases her commitment to collective learning and her genuine desire to help others succeed.

The impact of Beth efforts on the overall learning experience cannot be overstated. The chat group has facilitated ongoing conversations, encouraged collaboration, and fostered a sense of community among the learners. By actively participating and contributing, Beth has created an inclusive and supportive environment that has enhanced the educational journey for all involved.

Furthermore, Beth has consistently demonstrated exceptional leadership qualities within the chat group. She is always approachable, encouraging, and willing to provide guidance to her peers. Her ability to motivate and inspire others has resulted in increased engagement and a deeper understanding of the subject matter.

In conclusion, Beth has shown exemplary dedication, leadership, and a genuine commitment to fostering a supportive learning community. Her initiative in creating the chat group, her willingness to share notes, and her continuous support for fellow learners have made a significant and positive impact on the learning experience. I wholeheartedly believe that Beth is truly deserving of the "Best Learner of the Year" award.
